

NORTH CAROLINA.

Glob correspondence Lenoir Tent: Last Friday night a wandering brin went to the pasture of Mr. McLean, about three miles north of here, and killed and carried off a heifer, and badly injured another.

Raleigh Recorder: The Recorder closes its sixty-second volume with this number. There have been fifty additions to our church at Salisbury since Rev. M. E. Parrish became its pastor. The town is growing rapidly, and we are glad to say our church is growing more rapidly.

Carthage Blade: The Blade is most happy to announce that the 20-room hotel is assured, and that Mr. Shaw, the builder, is now making preparations for the erection of the building. Some of the town's men of means donate the lot and $1,000.

Tacksville Times: The sixth annual convention of the Onslow county Sunday school association meets in the town of Jacksonville on August 11th and 12th. The 327. The jail is still without an occupant, but we imagine that it will be enlarged about next October when the dear people will be sent to jail if they are unable to pay their taxes.

Greensboro Record: The Southern railway reorganization in the transportation department will go into effect on July 4th. Three new divisions are created. One known as the Washington division, the second as the Asheville division and the third as the Annapolis division. The idea in making this reorganization is, as stated, to equalize the divisions and the runs of the train men.

Fayetteville Observer: Rev. Benj. R. Hall is rapidly convalescing, and will soon be able to return to his charge. Before this trucking season, however, it is estimated by competent persons that as much as $5,000 will have been received by farmers, who have Fayetteville as their headquarters, for trucked alone. Only about a year ago the trucking industry of Cumberland could hardly more than supply the market.

Washington Progress: The crops in the Aurora section are the finest we have seen there at this season of the year for many years past. There is a large acreage in cotton and a large acreage in corn. The potato crop in this section was short, but the fair prices realized caused several of the farmers to come out ahead. We learn that Mr. Joe Wagner, of that section, made about $1,500 clear money from a small crop.

The Concord Standard tells of a swindler from Greensboro named J. W. Walker being arrested and tried in South Carolina for handling green goods. He had a wife, had a woman with him acting as his secretary. He was a very illiterate man, and the woman seemed to be possessed of more than ordinary intelligence. Her name was Miss Addie Houser, and her home is near Charlotte. When Walker was arrested, the woman was with him. She was also arrested, and the two were found to have $500 each in green goods on their persons. They got five years in the penitentiary for this.

Kinston Free Press: Mr. Joe Stricklin left his coat in his stable one day last week. It was stolen. It contained several papers, including a mortgage. A day or so later the papers were returned to the same place, but the thief kept the coat. This was to say the least, a kind of robbery. The coat was returned, but the papers were not. The thief was not caught. The papers were not returned. The thief was not caught. The papers were not returned. The thief was not caught.

Lumberton Reformer: The Reformer is glad to learn that Dr. R. E. Lewis, formerly of Lumberton, about recovered from his recent attack of paralysis, and is also glad that he has again become a citizen of Lumberton. Mr. Heckrich Rhodes, a prominent farmer of West Lumberton, died Saturday. He reports the crop prospects in his section as fine. Tobacco especially promising. The increase in tobacco this year will be more than twice the amount sent last. Bradstreet's.

Salisbury Sun: George D. P. Estel, an Engineer J. A. Shuman brought down the Western yesterday morning six car loads of chickens, containing in all 40,000. They came from North Carolina, and were to be shipped to the West. The chickens were to be shipped to the West. The chickens were to be shipped to the West.

A NOTED JOURNALIST CURED AND TESTIFIES. I was afflicted for three years with rheumatism of the ankle and joints to such an extent that locomotion was difficult, and I suffered great pain. I was induced to try a bottle of B. B. B. and before I had completed the second bottle I experienced relief, and four bottles effected an entire cure. Six months have passed since the swelling and pain disappeared and I will state that B. B. B. has effected a permanent cure, for which I am very grateful.

PUBLIC OPINION.

The moral sense of the country is offended at the spectacle of $25,000,000 being taken yearly from the poor by law and given to a rich monopoly. It is immoral to do such a thing. Being mere robbery, the public easily believes that a law to make it legal is obtained by corrupt methods. The whole protectionist system is immoral and wrong in principle and practice. The sugar trust's favors attract attention by their evident magnitude and few beneficiaries, but the same robbing of A for B's benefit attends the working of every protectionist schedule.—Baltimore Sun.

The old maxim of "find out what your enemy wants you to do, and then don't do it," seems to have been superseded by a new "find out what the sugar trust doesn't want, and then go do it." So repugnant has the sugar trust grown to our people, a repugnance which has grown as the trust has shown its ability to secure a tariff schedule to its liking and so inbred is the belief that the interests of our people are the opposite of those of the trust, that all that is needed to gather support from certain quarters for a proposition is to announce that the sugar trust opposes it.—Philadelphia American.

The theory that Democrats are becoming protectionists can offer little encouragement to any rational observer of conditions and tendencies. Morgan may want a little protection for Alabama, McHenry may want some for Louisiana, and Slayden may want it for Texas wool, but the fact remains that these states are overwhelmingly for free trade and free silver, and neither of them can be of the slightest service to the republicans. The fact is, the so-called Randalls of congress are merely giving the republicans all the rope they need for self-execution. The republicans are using the rope just as the free silver leaders want them to.—Galveston News.

The gamblers of Wall street violate the law with impunity. They have no fear of punishment. The New York Herald in speaking of the war on bucket shops and discretionary pool houses says that these men may "be forced to undergo disagreeable experiences in court." This, then, will be their only punishment for violation of the law. It reminds one of the tale on Colonel Carter, of Cartersville, who killed a Yankee postmaster soon after the war because he refused to sell him postage stamps on credit. In speaking of the incident, the colonel remarked: "I tell you, sah, if it hadn't been for my influential friends, sah, they would actually have got me into litigation, sah." Where are we "at" anyhow?—Houston Post.

During the past ten years the south has made rapid progress in supplying the needs of this country and Europe. A contemporary points out that it was only a dozen years ago that the first shipment of southern iron was made to Pennsylvania. At the time it created no small amount of surprise, for it was never believed prior to that time that the south would sell iron in the United States. Statistics on this point show that shipments for April, this year, amounted to 191,141 tons. Of this the west took 38,297 tons, the east 29,996 tons, and Europe 22,838 tons. Shipments to Europe so far this year amount to more than 100,000 tons, more than double the amount exported last year. It is expected that total shipments abroad for this year will be more than twice the amount sent last.—Bradstreet's.

Old People. Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old People find it just exactly what they need. Price fifty cents and $1.00 per bottle at R. R. Bellamy's Drug Store.

Two Lives Saved. Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at R. R. Bellamy's drug store.

The Deserts of Southeast California

Of the one hundred and fiftyseven thousand square miles which compose the area of California, about 35,000 square miles are desert. These do not to any distinctive extent appear in the northern and central part of the state, though as you approach the Nevada line at all latitudes the country assumes more sterile characteristics; but when you cross the southern boundary of Mono county, an extreme eastern division of the state and about midway its length, you pass into a country which gradually assumes those qualities and appearances which constitute a desert in the globe over. From a point about thirty miles west of the forty-first parallel of longitude and upon the south line of Mono county, southerly two hundred miles to the base of the Sierra Madre range of mountains, east to the Nevada line and the Colorado river along the entire longitudinal distance, the country is all desert. For fifty miles inland following the bend of the ocean beach at and below Los Angeles there is a climate tempered by the sea-fogs and the cool salt breezes, but these cannot climb the slopes of the Sierra Madre, the San Bernardino, and the San Jacinto mountains, so that thence to Arizona and south to the Mexican line there is aridity, a parched dryness and a dancing heat which oppresses all animal life when the sun is high, and radiates and disappears soon after the sun has set, so that even the summer nights are cool, and in winter there is a freezing temperature.

The general aspect of this country is strange even to weirdness. It is not generally barren, but is covered by the most curious and remarkable vegetation. For a hundred miles you may ride through orchards of the torch cactus, its thick trunk supporting bare arms, jointed by like bare perpendicular branches, standing in rough nakedness and stillness. The yucca, whose central stalk bears an abundance of pendulous white flowers, shows the green blade-leaves of the palm family up all canons; and the thorny mescal and the Spanish dagger, the intricate brush of greasewood, the scrubby mesquite, the white sage, and the innumerable grasses which in tufts and bunches checker here and there a broad sweep of bareness, all make up a flora as curious as it is wonderful. Even in regions of the maximum aridity, where the fiercest of the sun's rays is intolerable to life above the grade of a lizard, some defiant organisms of the vegetable kingdom will sustain themselves and cling to a reluctant existence. It is a country, too, broken by numberless and strange mountains which generally show a barrenness the valleys do not display; in some parts their sharp ridges and craggy peaks will line a broad valley in continuous chain for many miles; again they will stand at varying heights, isolated high round cones or low broad lumps, leaping suddenly from the flat surface as though they were set there by some enormous hand like giant bee hives.

The country shows everywhere evidences of the most turbulent activities of fire occurring in past geological ages. Some of the plains are mere ashes, while the mountains and elevations are black lava. Igneous dikes plunge here and there through sand and stone, and the acid granite caps country rock blown into peaks piercing far in the pale heavens.—John E. Bennett, Lippincott's Magazine.

Bewitched by Juggler

A correspondent of Scottish Nights, writing from India regarding the theory that the jugglers perform their tricks by "will power," says: "During the course of the Indian mutiny I made the acquaintance of one of these gentlemen of India, who tried to instruct me how to perform these tricks. He said it was all imaginary on the part of the spectators, as he simply willed that they should see these things.

"The most exciting performance that he gave for my amusement was the converting of a bamboo stick into a native servant, who waited at table and supplied our wants.

"Afterwards—in his absence—I tried it on and to my surprise the same man was before me asking for instructions. I directed him to fill the chutnies in the verandah with water from the well in the compound. This he proceeded to do. When he had filled them all to overflowing I requested him to stop. He, however, took no notice of me and went on stolidly bringing in the water, until, in my excited imagination, it seemed that the bungalow would be washed away.

"Finding that I could not arrest or stop his movements, he passing through me as though I did not exist, I drew my sword and lay in wait for him. Making a dash, I apparently cut him in twain, when, lo! there were two men bringing in the water, neither of whom could I restrain or prevent from doing so.

"I was completely out of my depth, when I heard a quiet laugh behind me, and on turning I found it was my instructor, who held up his right hand and the two men disappeared, the stick resumed its place in the veranda, and, as crown all, there was not the slightest sign of any water having been brought in. I excitedly appealed to him for an explanation. He said that he had been present all the time, having willed that he should be invisible to me, and that I should imagine myself to be doing it, and do what I thought had taken place.

"In order to prove it, he asked me to step out into the compound and direct my attention to a huge cavern, which I knew was not there before. As I entered a number of huge elephants and camels issued from it in a continuous stream, yet I could not touch one of them. They apparently passed over me as though I did not exist. He again raised his hand and the cavern and animals disappeared and there was no indication of an exodus of any kind."

Improvements on the Southern.

The Southern Railway Company has projected improvements at Pinners Point, Va., which, it is expected, will be completed by September, 1897, and which will aggregate fully $250,000 in value. It is intended to increase the shed room by a structure 252x700 feet in capacity, and to add to the present yard room, making its total extent over thirteen miles. The freight sheds will be increased until they can accommodate 155 cars, and there are also to be added a cotton warehouse 80x400 feet, a cotton compress 40x60 feet, also repairing and machine shops, an electric light plant and an office building. At these wharves there is a depth of twenty-seven feet of water, enough to accommodate steamships of the largest size. The company has changed its divisions somewhat, and announces the following sections: Washington, D. C., to Monroe, Va., 18 miles; Monroe to Spencer, N. C., 16 miles; Spencer to Greenville, S. C., 15 miles; and Greenville to Atlanta, Ga., 161 miles. It is estimated to make these changes and erect the necessary buildings at the terminals will cost $55,000.

It is expected that the inauguration of the fast freight line by the Southern Railway Company will eventually effect an elevator at Pinners Point, giving it the facilities for exporting grain. It is authoritatively stated that already business at Pinners Point has increased 600 per cent.—Manufacturers' Record.

Street Car Politeness.

A friend of mine was in an electric car the other day. After taking his seat he presently began to be very uncomfortable, for everybody seemed amused at him. Glances were leveled in his direction, girls giggled, elder ladies drew their faces into a pucker, and the atmosphere of the place was as electric as the fluid which sent the car through space. After a short interval the puzzled gentleman discovered that it was not he who was the object of mirth to his comrades on the road, but a poor, shy, blushing, tearful, trembling, frightened girl who was sitting by his side. She, poor child, was dressed in outer fashion, which did not please the set of people in that conveyance, and, evidently, she had met with an accident, for her clothing was tumbled and torn, her face bruised and cut, and one hand had been wrenched and seemed to be paining her very much. I can imagine nothing more brutally ill-bred and rudely ignorant and unfeeling than the behavior of those silly girls and boys, and still more silly grown-up people, in the car. Can you? They were laughing at a child who had met with an accident on her wheel! One of the first rules to be adopted by a thoroughly polite person is this: Never show surprise, except of the genuinely gracious kind—the kind that expresses cordial interest and pleasure. Never laugh at an awkward predicament, as, for example, a fall or a mistake made by another. Be careful to never pain anyone, friend or stranger, by ridicule or by thoughtlessly plain speaking.—Harper's Round Table.

MORE DEVELOPMENTS

IN THE OVERCHARGES OF THE LATE PUBLIC PRINTERS.

A Charge of $2,000 for $225 Work of Work—Before the Railway Commission. To Consult Federal Secretary as to Cattle Quarantine—The Auditor Forced to Work—Another Judgment Against the Tribune—Late Peach Crop Good.

Messenger Bureau, Park Hotel, Raleigh, N. C., July 1.

The railway commission orders a new passenger depot at Lumberton. It today took up the question of providing more accommodations for the negroes in the Union passenger station here. The negroes have made a great many complaints. J. C. MacRae appeared for the Seaboard Air Line and F. H. Busbee for the Southern. The matter was satisfactorily settled.

There were only eleven deaths in this city during June. The hot weather is now very trying. Yesterday the temperature ranged from 96 to 100.

One of the questions being asked here by politicians is what sort of an office will ex-United States Marshal Joshua B. Hill get.

S. Otho Wilson today received news that his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary A. Robbins, of Forestville, was dying. Mr. Newberry, commissioner of agriculture, and J. C. L. Harris, attorney of the board of culture, will go to Washington in a day or two to see the secretary of agriculture in regard to the settlement of the cattle quarantine line; that is, the line of quarantine against splenic fever.

The council of state is now the public printer. So said the secretary of state today. He added that orders would be issued today that the various departments would send the jobs of printing to Barnes Bros., and the latter will report then to the secretary of state, who will issue the order for the work, or rather approve the requisition. He will be aided by the auditor in this matter.

The state auditor says the late legislature imposed what he terms a stupendous amount of work on his office, and yet allows him no extra help. Besides this an annual appropriation of $2,500 which had heretofore been made for contingencies in the office of the state treasurer was stricken out and he can't employ any extra help. The result of the matter, as far as an auditor is concerned, is that he will have to work himself.

Ben R. Smith, of Reidsville, is commissioned adjutant of the second battalion of the Third regiment. The horticultural experiment grounds near Southern Pines are under the control of the state experiment farm and not of the agricultural department. There are eighty acres, of which sixty are leased from B. VonHerff at $1 a year, and twenty from J. VanLindley, for the same amount, these rents being nominal. On the twenty acre tract are the cottages and other buildings.

Another judgment against the defendant Tribune has been obtained. Not another copper can be squeezed out of that corporation. It was rumored that the plant had been resold, but this is denied.

The late public printers, Stewart Bros., are deep in trouble again, and an attempted overcharge is again the cause. Mr. Rivers, one of the examiners of public printing, gives me the details. He says: "They put in a bill for about 1,500,000 fertilizer tax tags, which are in blocks of 8 and are so printed and they counted each tag singly as an impression. This increased the price seven times, making the total $2,000, while the proper bill was $225. I allowed the bill on their statement that they could furnish these tags singly if they were so disposed. I did not know the law required each 'impression' to be of a block of eight tickets. Ex-Secretary Bruner explained the matter to me as to this and I have now made a statement that only $225 should be paid. The further the matter of Stewart Bros. overcharge is looked into the worse it gets."

President Alderman, of the university, has gone to Columbia to deliver the annual address before the University of South Carolina.

The peach crop is found to be quite a fine one so far as late varieties are concerned.

The machinery in the white institution here is removed to the colored institution for deaf mutes.

David Clark, son of Judge Walter Clark, left today for Cornell to take a special course.

A Night Funeral. New York, July 1.—Funeral services over the remains of Rev. Dr. Frank M. Ellis, took place at the Washington avenue Baptist church, of which he was the pastor, tonight. The casket was borne from his late residence to the church by pall bearers, followed by the trustees of the church, and a large number of friends and relatives of the dead clergyman and members of the congregation. The casket, a handsome cloth-covered one, bore the usual plate with the name and age of the deceased, with silver handles and mountings, reposed in front of the altar rails, was completely covered with flowers. The children of the Sunday school were also in attendance and numbers of them wept during the services.

Office of J. N. McElroy, Druggist, Orlando, Fla., April 29, 1891. Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga. Dear Sirs:—I sold three bottles of P. P. P. large size yesterday, and one bottle small size today.

The P. P. P. cured my wife of rheumatism winter before last. I came back on her the past winter and a half bottle, $1 size, relieved her again, and she has not had a symptom since. I sold a bottle of P. P. No Patchwork!

One of the most encouraging features of a cure made by S.S.S. (Swift's Specific) is its permanency. Of all diseases, it is well known that those of the blood are the most obstinate, and therefore the most difficult to cure. The medical profession, in fact, have virtually admitted that a real, deep-seated blood disease is beyond their skill.

Of course, their admission is not made in so many words, but actions speak louder than words, and their inability to cure, after months and often years of treatment, is sufficient evidence that diseases of the blood cannot be cured by doctors. Their mercurial mixtures, although taken faithfully, only cover up the symptoms of the disease, inducing the patient to feel that he is being cured; but when he is sooner or later seized with stiff joints, pain in the bones, etc., the evidence of the doctor's patchwork is conclusive. Such results cannot be expected from the use of S. S. S. Being purely vegetable, containing no harmful mineral ingredients, it is the only blood remedy which acts on the true principle of forcing the disease from the system, building up rather than tearing down the health. No loss of hair, no stiff joints, no decrepit mercurial wrecks result from the use of S.S.S.

H. L. MYERS.
Mr. H. L. Myers, of 100 Mulberry street, Newark, N. J., made the mistake of relying upon remedies based upon mineral ingredients, and for the hundreds of dollars which he invested received only disappointment in return. He says:

"I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured."

"Before I became convinced that the doctors could do no good I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S.S.S., I was greatly improved and was delighted with the result. The large red blotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite greatly improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass."

S.S.S. is a sure cure for all manner of blood diseases, and disappointment never results from its use. It is
